

Djik lurks round Hoxton Square on hot days, climbs through open car windows and turns bad music up really loud.

---

Conjure up your own monsters using text messages and set them free on the streets of London, then watch the projections for an illustration of your monster.

How? Start a text with where your monster lives (all one word, no spaces, e.g. Oxfordstreet), then a space, then put the monster's name and describe your monster, in one text only. Send it to 07786 207 770

Use the materials on our art table to illustrate your own monster and we'll project it.

Prizes will be awarded at the end of the evening for the monsters that our illustrator found were the most satisfying to draw.

Costs 07786 207 770 is a normal mobile number, so it only costs the same as sending a text to your friend's phone. Privacy You will not be signed up for anything, ever. You'll get a free text saying "Thank you" from Thumbprint, and that's it.

To find a monster, just text the name of the place (all one word no spaces e.g. Wardourstreet) and nothing else, to the same number 07786 207 770.

Visit thumbprintcity.com/london when you get home and look for your monster – you'll find there is a page for the place where it lives.

If your monster was the first thing in that place, you'll "own" the place, and you can add details about it, and invite other people to add monsters as well.

Djik monster drawn by Andy Sykes, for more like this get Andy's colouring book from hexjibber.com

thumbprintcity.com    myspace.com/freelondonmonsters

FREE LONDON'S MONSTERS!

